

Candidature for National treasurer 2018

Dear European Youth

This year has in many ways been both challenging and rewarding. I went in with a promise to create structure and organize the economic side of the organization, so that the Political side and the members would not have to worry about those parts in the future.

In many ways we succeeded and in some ways we ran into more challenges than we could have imagined. Together with the President and the rest of the presidency we broke ground in regards to the transparency of the organization from an economic standpoint, which in the future should be even more emphasized. We created a forum where I, in my role as Treasurer would be in constant dialog with the presidency, and make sure that all decisions were economical sound and fiscal.

The challenges lay mainly in our bad transitional traditions, where all knowledge is lost from year to year.

I now seek to remedy this, and is one of the main reasons for me going for reelection.

You can be extremely qualified and still feel lost, and in some ways I felt that I finally got a hold of how we really should run this organization from an economic standpoint, late last year, when we had time to dig deeper into every little case.

Experience and first hand knowledge is what I bring to the table

Other than still being extremely motivated to make this organization as strong and prosperous as it can be, I now have the experiences of a whole year behind me, and I am comfortable with European Youth's economic side. I can start from day one and work towards the goals set out both last year and this year from day one.

I have felt that there was a tradition where you would only sign up for one year, and leave it all behind afterwards through the period that I have been a member of this organization. And I Refuse to let that be my legacy. Just another board member that left after one year.

Personally I am still as excited to work with EU-subjects as ever

With the opportunities we got last year we need to work harder than ever. Knowing that might make some shy away from the situation, but I am fully aware of what I am walking into and I look forward to working harder, and creating opportunities and possibilities for our members to do even more when it comes to EU cooperation.

I want to put my personal assets into this organization and I am aware of what I have a knack for. Being of an economic mindset makes it interesting to attribute to our organization on this front.

I love the politics, but I have no problem letting other people decide the direction, and being one of the people that facilitates the possibilities for these policies to come to life. I can represent our organization best, when I am doing what I am great at, and that would be the economic and structural side of things.

I am looking forward to seeing you all this weekend.

Best Regards
